

The broadcast companies deluge the airwaves with their 'product' and now they they want the government to force me to pay extra for a TV that will not allow me to record the broadcast.

pay more and get less, no that does not seem a reasonable and just solution. If they want to maintain their strict copyright on the material then they should not broadcast it over the public airwaves, but should choose to distribute it via theatrical release only.